Educational Resources Directory

Educational Book Suppliers

Libraries

Many libraries have a schools service; a school can borrow a box of books of particular topics or reading levels, for an extended loan period. Some libraries will extend this service to home educating families, especially if topics do not coincide with the national curriculum demands of local schools.

<http://www.lessonplanspages.com> – An educational resource centre that provides many free downloadable worksheets covering several different subjects.

<http://www.howstuffworks.com> – Very good website, very informative, covers a wide range of how things work from cholesterol to tattoos, no worksheets but all the information can be printed off and there is an option to sign up for a free monthly newsletter.

<http://www.english-teaching.co.uk/samples/htm> – Designed for older children this website has many worksheets, some you have to be a member in order to obtain (membership is £15 a year) but there are many English worksheets you can download for free.

<http://www.teachers.net/lessons/> – Many lessons on all kind of subjects with new ones being added all the time. All ideas and lesson plans are submitted by teachers. Quite similar to the Primary Resources website though this has worksheets and lesson plans for older children.

<http://www.discovery.com> – From the popular television channel. This site has many free worksheets and lessons plans for all ages; subjects range from animals to weather.

<http://www.topmarks.co.uk> – Lots of ideas, worksheets and links to other educational sites, covers all subjects for all ages.

<http://www.happychild.org.uk> – Fantastic site with literally hundreds of free worksheets, ideas and lesson plans. It covers 14 different subjects and areas.
